17.00 – 18.00 Exclusive report of the international expert in the field of project management. Maslow, Memetics and Managing Risk: Motivation matters

Ball Room A

DR. DAVID HILLSON, director, Risk Doctor & Partners

All projects are risky, and effective risk management is a key contributor to project and business success. Project risk management is well established, with an agreed process, accepted methods and proven techniques. Despite this consensus, some elements of risk management are still problematic. This intermediate level Master Class addresses these sticking–points, presenting practical solutions to the most difficult parts of the risk process.

The workshop covers the following main topics :

- Key concepts: relating uncertainty, risk, threat & opportunity
- Summary of the risk process
- Issues with identification: finding and describing risks
- Aspects of assessment: defining scales and understanding exposure
- Realistic responses: strategies and tactics

- Implementation issues: reviews and updates
- Keeping it alive: communication and buy-in

The workshop includes a number of exercises to allow delegates to practice the areas discussed.

The workshop is designed for:

- Anyone involved in a project which is subject to uncertainty
- Project managers and risk practitioners who wish to extend their skills to manage risk more effectively
- Any project stakeholder with an interest in maximising the chances of project success

18.00 The completion of the conference
